Lauren Herring Named One of Top 25 2015 Workforce Game Changers

Award program recognizes the next generation of HR professionals who are developing strategies for an innovative workforce.

SAINT LOUIS July 30, 2015 — IMPACT Group, a global WBE-career transition firm, is pleased to announce that Lauren Herring, CEO, was named among the winners of Workforce magazine's fifth annual Game Changers competition. Each year, the international award program selects twenty-five top HR practitioners and strategists, under the age of 40, who are dedicated to pushing the profession forward with innovative people-management practices. This year's Game Changers demonstrated excellence in devising and executing innovative HR strategies to help their companies or clients improve their workforces.

"I am honored to be among some of the top practitioners and innovators in the HR space," said Lauren Herring, CEO of IMPACT Group. "At IMPACT Group, we strive to innovate, challenge the norm and provide the best support services available to those in career transition. I am proud that our hard work is being recognized."

"It's important that HR not only changes along with the times, but also leads the way — recognizing that any organization's strongest asset is its people. We applaud these HR professionals for taking the initiative to advance workforce management practices," said Rick Bell, Workforce magazine's managing editor.

This year's winners range from emerging HR professionals to more experienced practitioners who have a track record of designing and implementing innovative HR programs. Various industries are represented, including education, automotive and professional services. This year's awardees hail from across the country and across the world, including Asia, Europe and the Middle East.
